

How to Use the Digital History Reader

Assignments

Each module of the Digital History Reader includes a number of homework or in-class assignments designed by the module's author. The assignments are designed to promote students' engagement with and understanding of the material presented through writing exercises and discussion.

The Assignment component of each module also includes an online quiz to assess student comprehension and analytical ability, as well as an online evaluation section, in which both instructors and students may provide their impressions, suggestions, and comments to module authors on the overall effectiveness of the material.
